

ROBIN HILL

Hill's gorgeous large-scale tantric drawings are created from oilstick, wax and one creamy blue line looping into inner space. While they may be road maps to the soul, they also seem to serve as blueprints for the grand floor sculptures made of throwaway units plaster-cast from the inside of paper cups and painted electric blue. Let your eyes trace the interweaving paths and it's like walking in a rock garden, playing with electric trains or redistributing your chakras.
